EDITORIAL

The true beauty of a city lies on their street life, markets and culture. Street photography encompasses all these aspects of life. The bustling market of Commercial Street in Bengaluru offers a wide selection of clothes, footwear, jewelry, endless types of fabric and almost everything under the sun.

The delicious food and the whole vibrant atmosphere around makes it almost impossible to leave. Street Photography captures the rawness and the candidness of moments that might have otherwise gone unnoticed.

ELEGANCE"

One of the best ways to represent culture is through street food. There is an endless variety of street food that can be found and a lot of them have different origins. The food is reasonably priced, very flavorful and easily available.

Bengaluru has a plethora of choices when it comes to food, whether one wants food from the North or the South, you can find everything here. The food ranges from Pav Bhaji, Vada Pav from the North to Dosa or Idli from the South. One of the best places for foodies to wander.

The vendors are the backbone of every market place. It is through them that we get to purchase things, they're always providing and working and their efforts go unnoticed oftentimes. It's high time that we start being grateful, grateful for everyone that make our life easier even if it's by selling basic items. We owe it all to them.

For those who love wandering around the street, let me tell you, Bangalore is just the right place for you. Commercial Street and MG Road are known for their graffiti and you can find incredibly artistic wall paintings. Everyone expresses themselves differently and wall graffiti is one of them.

It is one of the ways people bring out their artistic identity by creating an outlet for their creativity. On one hand it can be seen as rebellious and wild, it can also be seen as street art and beautification of boring mundane walls, one just has to shift their perspective.

The Book and Tract society's structure is an old reading paradise in Bangalore. The Tract and Book Society, which now also has a cafe called Hard Rock Cafe, has attracted the crowd and has created a lively atmosphere around it.

It is located in Mahatma Gandhi Road and is grabbing the attention of people who enjoy its vintage stony exterior amidst the concrete jungle surrounding the area.
