ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The Indian economy, despite being one of the fastest growing economies of the world, still ranks 60th in the Inclusive Development Index-2017 and is projected as one with a high degree of inequality. Her economic reforms have failed, deepening the problem of inequality, leading to a sharp rise in income disparity and eventually slowing down other vital economic objectives like poverty reduction, gender inequality, regional imbalances, and so on. The recent failure of economic reforms was the reflection of underscoring the need of the most important problem-inclusive growth and sustainable development. Both the macro and micro policies of developed countries have been proven wrong by the 2008 global recession. The global economy is also changing its path from globalization towards de-globalization and protectionism. The challenge now is "What are the main pillars that underpin an inclusive growth agenda to access equality with sustainable development"? In this backdrop, examining the possibility of achieving inclusive growth and sustainable development is a joint responsibility of academicians, corporates, NGOs and other government bodies. This national conference will contribute in the areas which drive the Indian economy towards inclusive growth and sustainable development.
