The Department offers innovative curriculum which contains teaching and evaluation methodology and it ensures that the students are well trained and equipped with the latest knowledge and skills to cope with new emerging challenges.

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

India's economic growth in the financial year 2018 is expected to accelerate to 6.75% on improved performance of both industry and services. However, India still has many growing concerns in the agricultural sector. This sector which accounted for 23% of GDP and employed 59% of the country's total workforce in 2016 is expected to grow only at the rate of 2.1% while the Indian population growth is faster and would overtake China as the world's most populous nation by 2022. The view is supported by the fall in the share of the agricultural sector in GDP. This indicates that the market demand for food would continue to grow in the coming years while the role of agriculture as the food provider & driver of overall economic growth is diminishing over time. The trend in the growth pattern of population and GDP clearly points out that a vibrant agricultural sector reform and strong policy change is vital for the economic transformation of India. Achieving sufficiency in food production is a serious issue which needs to be immediately addressed as India still accounts for a quarter of the world's hungry people and is home to over 190 million undernourished ones. Anemia continues to affect 50% of women and 60% of children in the country. Hunger and malnutrition is a twin problem which needs to be contemplated on. In this backdrop, examining the possibility of achieving sustainability in agricultural development is a joint responsibility of academicians, corporates, NGOs, other government bodies and policy makers. This National Conference will contribute in the areas of self-sufficiency in agriculture production, agriculture finance, agricultural trade, agribusiness, agricultural marketing and other aspects which drive the agricultural sector towards sustainable development.
